REMARKS ON THE NEW HEBRIDES.

ANNEXATION BY ENGLAND. Said to be the only remedy.

Sydney, New South Wales, November 23.—Reports have been received from New Hebrides island, lying west of Fiji, that the natives are being sold like sheep for from £6 to £10 per head, and that many are subjected to great cruelties. The New Hebrides are under joint Anglo-French control. The New Hebrides Company, which has large interests in the islands, last year sent a deputation to Sir T. Mellwraith, the Colonial treasurer of Queensland, complaining of this joint control, and suggesting that Sir W. McGregor, administrator of British New Guinea, should also have jurisdiction over the New Hebrides.

Sir T. Mellwraith said in reply that the only solution lay in the annexation of the islands by Great Britain or in the establishment of a protectorate over them. There is a British High Commissioner of the West Pacific who has jurisdiction to settle disputes between British subjects living in these islands and others.

The Anglo-French control was fixed by a convention between Great Britain and France on October 24, 1887, in which it was agreed that the protection of persons and property in the New Hebrides should be secured by means of a mixed commission composed of naval officers belonging to the English and French naval stations in the Pacific.

How Would It Do for Cane?

According to the Boston Advertiser, a farmer on Toms River, New Jersey, is the first to practise electrical farming to any extent, and with apparent success. Utilising a stream that flows through his farm to the river, he has provided a copious supply of electricity, with which he not only irrigates his farm, but works it and lights it. Ploughs, rakes, harrows, mowers, and reapers are all worked by electric motors, and weeds are killed by dragging a wire netting, heavily charged, over the field. Electricity is applied to plants in two ways—through the soil by means of wires, and by powerful arc lights, softened by amber globes. As soon as the seed is sown the electric current is turned on the underground wires, and stimulation is continued till the crop is harvested. By this means production is said to be increased 50 per cent. above common methods. Flowers, vegetables, wheat heads, everything grown under the electric influence is doubled in size. A drawback about the flowers is that they soon fade and drop after blowing. Is it not probable that the food stuffs will be found less nutritious in proportion as they are quickly forced to maturity?

Uncle Sam's Greatest Effort in Gun-making.

Mightiest of guns ever built in America, and one of the largest yet constructed anywhere, is the 16 inch engine of war on which work is now being pushed at the Watervliet Arsenal. It will be 41.67 feet long, weigh 125 tons, have a range of sixteen miles, and will penetrate twenty-seven and a half inches of the best steel armor at two miles. Mounted at Fort Wadsworth, in case of hostilities with Spain, this gun would be able to hurl a 2370-pound projectile at a man-of-war before she got within seven miles of Sandy Hook.—New York Press.
